To Contest the Showman's Will.

White Plains, N. Y., June 20.—A contest over the several million dollar estate left by James A. Bailey, the circus owner, who died last April, was foreshadowed Tuesday when formal objection was made to the probate of his will. The objectors are Anna E. Robinson and Mary Gordon, nieces of Bailey, and Gordon Dancy, a nephew. The objectors allege that the will filed is not the last will and testament of Mr. Bailey; that it was obtained by undue influence, and that he was not competent at the time the instrument was signed to make a will.
